the first

book, many changes have taken place in

marketing.
This second edition sets
out to present
a comprehensiv e description

we approach

Boards in Tropical Africa
Taylor &
Francis
Originally
published in 1971, this book resulted
from a 2-year
study of the implications of the Common Market
agricultural policy in relation to
agricultural
marketing in Britain. It
provides the background to

policies and
explains why
marketing
developed
differently in Britain and European
countries.
There are specific chapters on
cereals, sugar,
diary produce,
horticultural
products,
livestock and
meat,
vegetable oils
and oilseeds,
eggs and
poultry-meat
and other
farm products
such as hops
potatoes and wool). The
discusses

such issues as the possible effects on British agricultural and horticultural marketing of adopting the CAP and the role played by the producer organisations.
